Mt. Pleasant Cemetery
(also known as Sawdust and/or Ginder)

Wilmington Township
DeKalb County, Indiana

A - J

This is one of an series of photographic records of cemeteries for DeKalb County, Indiana. It includes photos of the tombstones and genealogical data for the families of the individual surnames listed on the monuments. I made serious effort to be accurate and reasonable with my research.

have been born five children, namely: Cletus, Paul, George Leo, John Raymond, Mary Magdalene and Corina Effie. Religiously, Mr. Noirot and the members of his family are members of the Catholic church and he belongs to the Catholic Benevolent League of Indiana. Mr. Noirot occupies a conspicuous place among the leading men of DeKalb county and enjoys the confidence and esteem of all who know him. His record demonstrates that where there is a will there is a way and that obstacles to success may be overcome by courage, self-reliance and persistency. His career, though strenuous, has been fraught with good to the community and he enjoys a well deserved popularity in the circles in which he moves.

JOHN JOEL EAKRIGHT.

An enumeration of those men of the present generation who have won honor and public recognition for themselves, and at the same time have honored the locality to which they belong, would be incomplete were there failure to make mention of him whose name forms the caption of this sketch. The qualities which have made him one of the prominent and successful men of DeKalb county have also brought him the esteem of his fellow men, for his career has been one of well-directed energy, strong determination and honorable methods.

John Joel Eakright was born on March 15, 1852, in Wilmington township, DeKalb county, Indiana, about two miles south of Butler, and is a son of Abraham and Susannah (Miller) Eakright. Abraham Eakright was born in Wayne county, Ohio, on December 30, 1827. His father, Samuel Eakright, was a native of England and came to America in 1811, and soon after enlisted in the service of the United States in the war of 1812, settled in Ohio and there married Mary Maxwell, a native of Ireland. In 1836 they moved to DeKalb county, settling in Wilmington township, where he died in 1853, and his wife in 1872. They had a family of thirteen children. When the family first moved to DeKalb county, their only neighbors were Indians, and it was eighteen months before Mrs. Eakright saw a white woman. Their trading point was Fort Wayne, or Lima, reaching the former place by pirogue boating on the river. None of Samuel Eakright's children are now living and John Joel Eakright, the subject of this sketch, is the oldest member of the family. Abraham Eakright was married on June 19, 1851, to Susannah Miller, a native of Cumberland county, Pennsylvania, and the daughter of Joel and Sarah (Eichelbarger) Miller, who came to DeKalb county in about 1847, locating four miles east of Auburn in Union township, where he bought a farm and lived during the rest of their lives. The Eakright family took a prominent place in the early life of this locality and Samuel Eakright built the first bridge across the St. Joe river at Newville, where the new bridge now stands. He was also the first road commissioner of DeKalb county. Of the children of Abraham and Susannah (Miller) Eakright, John J. is the subject of this sketch; Sarah A. is the wife of Lewis Manrow and lives north of Sedan; Edward W. is deceased; Mary Alenora is the wife of William J. Hoagland, of Auburn, and Ellsworth A. lives on the old homestead in Wilmington township. Abraham Eakright's family was unbroken for over forty years. He was a faithful and earnest member of the United Brethren church until his death, which occurred on December 31, 1891, on the day following his sixty-fourth birthday anniversary. His life was long and useful, and he enjoyed the respect and esteem of all who knew him. His wife, Susannah, was born May 28, 1831, and came from Pennsylvania to Richland county, Ohio, with her parents, where they remained until about 1847, when the family came to DeKalb county. She, too, was a member of the United Brethren church from the age of sixteen years, and lived a sincere and faithful Christian life until her death, which occurred on April 6, 1904, in the seventy-third year of her age.

John Joel Eakright was reared on his father's farm and received his education in Butler and the high school at Auburn. In the fall of 1873 he began teaching school and continued this vocation successfully until 1885, when he compiled a history of DeKalb county. Resuming his pedagogical work then, he continued it until he had taught twenty-three years, of which period eighteen years was in his home district, and in later years he taught many children of former pupils, and in these children he plainly observed traits of character that had been noticeable in their parents. He had a good influence over these children, winning them and then stimulating them by kindness and argument rather than by force. Because of the personal interest he manifested in his pupils and the close touch that has been maintained between him and them during subsequent years, he receives many letters of grateful appreciation from them and is today numbered among the successful educators of his county, though he has not been actively engaged in the profession for a number of years. In 1884 Mr. Eakright was elected justice of the peace for a term of four years, and in 1895 he was elected trustee of Wilmington township, serving the regular term and the extension period because of legislative enactment, amounting to a total of five years and three months. In 1905 he was elected county surveyor, serving two terms with eminent satisfaction to all concerned, and was subsequently elected city engineer of Butler, but, owing to an injury received in a runaway accident, which disabled him after about a month of official service, he gave up the position and returned to Auburn, where he has since resided. He is the owner of a splendid farm of one hundred and six and one-half acres in section twenty, Wilmington township, from which he derives a gratifying profit. Politically, Mr. Eakright is a Republican and takes a keen interest in the success of his party, as well as in local public affairs, giving his support to every movement which promises in any way to advance the local welfare.

On October 28, 1874, Mr. Eakright married Acelia Treman, who was born in Wilmington township about two miles west of Butler, the daughter of Edgar and Laura (Spencer) Treman. These parents, who were both natives of Medina county, Ohio, were married there and came to DeKalb county in about 1841. With Edgar Treman came John Treman, his father. John Treman entered quite a tract of land and divided it among his children. Edgar owned eighty acres of land and there lived the rest of his life. He was a farmer and also a shoemaker, and his wife was in pioneer days considered an expert weaver. Edgar Treman served as township trustee and was otherwise strong in his community, which was honored by his citizenship up to the time of his death, which occurred on May 21, 1885. His wife was a good, faithful woman, trained in the pioneer school of life and experience and knew how to work and rear a family successfully in the midst of difficulties which would deter the average woman of the present day and she gave to her children the best years of her pure, noble life. Her death occured in 1863.

To Mr. and Mrs. Eakright has been born one son, Orton Edgar, whose birth occurred on September 9, 1877, and who was for many years in the employ of the Overland Automobile Company at Toledo, but is now a tester for the Auburn Auto Company. He married Louise Bard. John Joel Eakright is a man of marked literary taste and ability, and has written a number of poems which have been published in current magazines and periodicals and which have received many commendatory words of praise. He writes for pastime rather than as a means of profit and has written by request a poem for the reunion of the Eighty-eighth Indiana Volunteers. It was greatly appreciated and copies distributed as souvenirs of the reunion. His poems are varied in character, pathetic, humorous and other styles and all are very readable and of high literary merit.

He married Louise Bard. John Joel Eakright is a man of marked literary taste and ability, and has written a number of poems, which have been published in current magazines and periodicals and which have received many commendatory words of praise. He writes for pasttime rather than as a means of profit and has written by request a poem for the reunion of the Eighty-eighth Indiana Volunteers. It was greatly appreciated and copies distributed as souvenirs of the reunion. His poems are varied in character, pathetic, humorous and other styles and all are very readable and of high literary merit.

Biography of John J. Eakright, page 983. History of De Kalb County, Indiana. Inter-State Publishing Company, Chicago, 1885.

John J. Eakright, section 20, Wilmington Township, is a prominent teacher of De Kalb County. He was born three miles south of Butler, March 15, 1852, a son of Abraham and Susannah (Miller) Eakright. He was reared on his father's farm and educated in Butler and the High School of Auburn. He began teaching in the fall of 1873, and has taught nine winters in his home district. He taught one winter in Union Township, and the winter of 1884-'85 in No. 3, Wilmington Township. Mr. Eakright has been a very successful teacher, and has gained a reputation second to none in the county. He takes an active interest in the teachers' institutes of De Kalb County, and has never missed a session since he began teaching. He was elected Justice of the Peace in 1884 for a term of four years. Mr. Eakright was married Oct. 28, 1874, to Acelia Treman, daughter of Edgar Treman, an old setter of Wilmington Township. They have one son---Orton E., born Sept. 9, 1877. Mr. Eakright has a pleasant home of forty-seven acres, and in the summer devotes his attention to farming.
